Adams Dairy Bank Adds Staff to Continue to Strengthen Community Roots
Patrick Mitchell Jr. joins Adams Dairy Bank to focus on internal and external relationships

BLUE SPRINGS, MO. (May 7, 2010) – After two years in business, Adams Dairy Bank continues to grow and thrive in eastern Jackson County, establishing themselves as a “homegrown” community bank. To help continue and spur additional growth, Adams Dairy Bank announces the addition of Patrick Mitchell Jr. to the team as Vice President and Senior Lender. Mitchell will focus on building and developing relationships for new loans and deposits with existing and new customers.

“Patrick lives in the Blue Springs area, so he’s already familiar with the community in which he will build relationships and understands how valuable those relationships are,” said David Chinnery, president and CEO. “We are excited for him to put his industry experience to work growing our bank and relationships, as well as apply his organizational development and leadership skills to mentor the Adams Dairy Bank team through continued growth.”

Mitchell joins Adams Dairy Bank with 12 years financial services experience. A graduate from Rockhurst University with a Bachelor of Professional Studies, Organizational Leadership as well as a Master of Business Administration, Finance and Management. His banking experience took him from the entry-level rungs up through branch manager, and most recently as a commercial loan officer of a local branch of a national bank. Mitchell is also a board member at the Calvary Community Outreach Network, dedicated to assisting with the spiritual, physical, economic, and social needs of individuals and families living and working in urban Kansas City.
